Kefauver Behind
In Delegate And Popularity Tests

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — Democrats: Delegates-at-large (16, 12 each); 1403 of 4,153 districts, unpledged organization leading 16; Kefauver leading 0. District delegates (56, 12 each): Unpledged organization elected 12, leading 43; Kefauver leading 1. Presidential poll: 2674 of 4,155 districts:

(D) Kefauver 74,564;
Stevenson (write-in) 760.

NEWARK, N. J. (Wednesday) — Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee suffers a double setback in returns today from New Jersey's presidential primary.

He faced a possible shutout in his quest for state delegates to the Democratic national convention. And President Eisenhower swamped him by a better than 2 to 1 margin in the presidential preference "popularity" balloting.

An unpledged Democratic convention slate led by Gov. Robert E. Meyner and backed by the party's state organization led for 33 1/2 of the state's 52 convention votes.

Kefauver candidate representing 1/2 vote held a tenuous lead for one seat.

Returns from 2,543 of 4,153 voting districts in the so-called "popularity" poll:

Eisenhower 185,529; Kefauver 75,542; Adlai Stevenson (write-in) 748. Stevenson was not a candidate in New Jersey.

'Great Service'

Martin J. Rafferty of Newark, head of the Kefauver delegate slate said:

"The senator performed a great service for the people of New Jersey. He showed great political courage coming into the state.

"The people gave him a good vote. It is by no means a defeat for him.

"Highly organized Democratic machines in 21 counties were too much for him to overcome in so short a time. If he had a few more weeks his showing would have been much better."

In a comparatively light vote, both Eisenhower and Kefauver appeared to be running short of the totals they rolled up in the 1952 New Jersey primary.

That year, unlike this, there was a Republican contest for delegate votes.

Defeated Taft

Eisenhower polled 390,591 votes in defeating Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio and former Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota.

Kefauver garnered 154,964 in 1952 in the presidential preference poll. He was also unopposed then. But he got only three of the state's 36 convention votes, the other 33 going to Stevenson.

A number of members of the unpledged slate are regarded as friendly to Stevenson, but Meyner has insisted the slate is neutral at this time.

The slate will send 72 delegates to the Democratic convention, each with a half vote.

Kefauver spent six days campaigning in New Jersey and had said he would do well all over the state. He had predicted he might get a minimum of 10 delegates.

Democratic State Chairman George Brunner forecast that not one member of the Tennessean slate would win a convention seat.

Running Short

Kefauver racked up 154,964 presidential votes in New Jersey's 1952 primary.

With about half the vote in Tuesday night, he was running short of his pace of four years ago.

Kefauver's supporters had hoped the Democratic delegate contest would draw out the party vote and help him in trying to outpoll Eisenhower's Republican vote.

But leading supporters of Stevenson had announced they intended to cut Kefauver by skipping the preferential part of the ballot and voting only for Meyner's unpledged slate.

Eisenhower was assured of the state's 38 votes at the Republican national convention. A slate pledged to him had only token opposition from four candidates who called themselves "conservative Republicans," unpledged to anybody.

Kefauver had campaigned vigorously in Jersey City in the belief there was discord in the organization headed by former Mayor John V. Kenny.

Firemen and police there, for instance, had been upset at being denied a pay raise in a referendum and had held the organization responsible.

There is no standard presidential pitching uniform. Eisenhower got ready for the great occasion by putting on his hat and taking off his topcoat.

Old Trick

Then as members of the Washington Senators and the New York Yankees gathered in front of the flag-draped presidential box, Eisenhower pulled an old trick of Babe Ruth's. Ruth once pointed where he was going to poke a home run—and then he did it.

Alas, for the story. As a pitcher, the President isn't much at calling his shots. Eisenhower's pitch was a looper that five or six players grabbed at, and missed, before Gil McDougald of the Yankees finally got it.

The President then repeated the throw and this time it was caught by Cookie Lavagetto, a Washington coach.

War Chances Are Fading - Sec. Dulles

Middle East's Outlook Better

Cabinet Officer Tells Reporters He Is More Optimistic

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON (INS) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles took a benign look around the world Tuesday and decided that peace is probably here to stay.

Wearing a green striped suit and an eloquently blue-and-white striped tie, the secretary happily told a news conference that:

1. War can be avoided in the dynamite-laden Middle East — and probably will be.
2. Soviet infiltration in practically ticked in Latin America.
3. It's perfectly all right with Uncle Sam if our Canadian good neighbor sends jet fighter planes to Israel, even though we aren't doing likewise.

5. Sure, the Russians are probably launching a drive to lure African nations like the Sudan with technical assistance programs, but that count most—people and principles."

The President formally opened his drive for a second term with an exhortation to cheering Republican leaders to appeal to the good of the people and minds of the people."

He spoke at a dinner winding up a Republican strategy conference which brought together hundreds of party officials and workers from over the country.

Relaxed and Taa

Dulles gave the impression that he has been making the most of these last few days while anti-administration congressmen have lambasted the farm program instead of his foreign affairs department.

He said that military men have learned that great leaders also must have under them lower echelons with the vigor and enthusiasm of youth.

Average Thing

He recalled a quotation that "The great genius is a man who can do the average thing when everybody else is going crazy."

Eisenhower appealed to fellow Republicans to launch an "organized crusade" in this election year, with emphasis on people and principles. He himself laid stress on civil rights.

Accepts First Half

Dulles said he would certainly accept the first half of the statement. Pressed to reply on the second, he said the chances are that there will be no war.

Musing a moment, he added that it is very rash indeed, however, to say that there is no risk of hostilities whatsoever in that area.

The Latin American situation seemed particularly bright to the optimistic secretary. Asked if the administration feels growing concern about the Communist situation here, inasmuch as two top leaders have made speeches on the subject this week, Dulles registered surprise.

As a matter of fact, he replied, the situation is not nearly as serious below our borders as it used to be, particularly when the Reds had virtually seized control of Guatemala two years ago.

Two Days

Gaily lit yachts in the harbor blew their whistles as the end of the midnight chimes saluted the start of the first of two festive wedding days. Champagne corks popped in bars all over town.

An orchestra provided by the principally sent music throughout the port area. Throngs danced and pranced along the boulevard bordering the harbor.

Grace and the Prince went to the turret to watch the fireworks after witnessing a grandiose fete of folk dancing, ballet, symphony music and cheering from a window on the palace plaza.

Grace and the Prince were to be married in a civil ceremony at 11 a.m. today. The big religious wedding will be tomorrow.

The couple dined formally with their families in the palace last night before the outdoor spectacle.

The only other guest appeared to be Rev. Francis Tucker, the American priest who is the spiritual adviser to the Prince and responsible for the romance.

The speed of sound varies from 760 m.p.h. at sea level to about 670 m.p.h. above 35,000 feet.

The F104A, with its stubby, wafer-thin wings, looks more like a rocket than a piloted plane. It is, in effect, a manned missile moving so fast that special refrigeration is required to offset the heat from air friction.

Twice Speed Of Sound

Lockheed Aircraft Corp., forbidden by the Air Force to make public the plane's full speed, nevertheless indicated it may be capable of velocities more than twice the speed of sound.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The reason actress Claire Ann Kelly led police on a 90 m.p.h. auto chase, she said, was that her psychiatrist had urged her to relieve her emotions "in most any way."

Despite her testimony, a judge convicted her of reckless driving and sentenced her to five days in jail.

Miss Kelly, 21, told the court that the psychiatrist was with her in her red sports car during the ride. He had no comment.

IKE TOSSES OUT LOOPER AND SEASON IS OPENED

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Army Band struck up "Hail to the Chief," and President Eisenhower strode into Griffith Stadium to keep a 46-year-old tradition.

No one seems to know why a president always—well, almost always—feels he must open a baseball season in grand style. After all, the fishing season, the basketball season, the bowling season all open without presidential help.

But ever since William Howard Taft started the custom, in 1910, every president, whether he loved baseball or loathed it, has attended these opening games.

Only 12 times, in all these years, has a president missed an opener, and this includes a lot of war years, when a president conceivably had more important things to fret about than a ball game.

And here was Eisenhower, his bald head gleaming brightly on a bald day, keeping up the tradition. It's no secret that Eisenhower

War Chances Are Fading - Sec. Dulles

Middle East's Outlook Better

Cabinet Officer Tells Reporters
He Is More Optimistic

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON (INS) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles took a benign look around the world Tuesday and decided that peace is probably here to stay.

Wearing a green striped suit and an eloquently blue-and-white striped tie, the secretary happily told a news conference that:

2. Soviet infiltration in practically licked in Latin America.

3. It's perfectly all right with Uncle Sam if our Canadian good neighbor sends jet fighter planes to Israel, even though we aren't doing likewise.

Just Dandy

Democratic Sen. Walter George's proposal to set up a study commission on our foreign aid is just dandy with the State Department. In fact, Dulles had something of the same idea in mind himself.

5. Sure, the Russians are probably launching a drive to lure African nations like the Sudan with technical assistance programs, but there's no reason to think they will be successful.

At that point, our usually straight-laced secretary broke out a little slang. Explaining that most African nations are as skeptical as any others about Soviet Trojan Horse offers, he grinned that they are wary of possible "hookers" in Russia.

The President formally opened his drive for a second term with an exhortation to cheering Republican leaders to appeal to youth and to "win the hearts and minds of the people."

He spoke at a dinner winding up a Republican strategy conference which brought together hundreds of party officials and workers from over the country.

Drifting back to the role of a former general, the President declared that there is "such thing as an easy battle" and "the good fighter take nothing for granted."

He said that military men have learned that great leaders also must have under them lower echelons with the vigor and enthusiasm of youth.

Average Thing

He recalled a quotation that "the great genius is a man who can do the average thing when everybody else is going crazy."

Eisenhower appealed to fellow Republicans to launch an "organized crusade" in this election year, with emphasis on people and principles.

Once he bordered on calling the Yugoslav ambassador to Washington "rash." This correspondent, pointing out that Ambassador Leo Mates expressed the belief last week that war "not only can, but will be avoided in the Middle East," asked whether the secretary agreed.

Accepts First Half

Dulles said he would certainly accept the first half of the statement. Pressed to reply on the second, he said the chances are that there will be no war.

Musing a moment, he added that it is very rash, indeed, however, to say that there is no risk of hostilities whatsoever in that area.

As a matter of fact, he replied, the situation is not nearly as serious below our borders as it used to be, particularly when the Reds had virtually seized control of Guatemala two years ago.

The scene could never be matched—even in movieland make believe. For this is to be the real wedding of a royal prince and the young movie queen who chose to be his princess.

Mideast Peace Help Offered By Moscow

ARABS' HOPES SLUMP

They Counted On Russian Support

By STANLEY JOHNSON

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union Tuesday urged Israel and the Arab states to settle their conflict and offered to join other nations seeking peaceful solution of unsettled problems in the Middle East.

At the same time, it pledged support of a U.N. program "to find ways and means of strengthening peace in the area of Palestine."

The declaration by the Soviet Foreign Ministry appeared to dash any Arab hopes for automatic Russian support against Israel, although it denounced interference in Arab internal affairs and "the notorious Bagdad Pact" sponsored by the West and unpopular in most Arab states.

Perhaps Eager

Release of this statement on the eve of an official visit to Britain by Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party Secretary Nikita Khrushchev indicated the Soviet leaders are ready—perhaps eager—to discuss the Middle East crisis with British leaders.

Soon after the statement's release at a hastily summoned news conference, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov told reporters at a Syrian embassy Independence Day reception that he thought it would serve as the basis for discussion in London. Molotov said the Soviet Union would agree to work with other nations for Middle East peace either in the United Nations or in separate meetings.

U.S. Secretary of State Dulles told a news conference in Washington he welcomed the Soviet statement and speculated it was a response to President Eisenhower's April 9 statement urging U.N. members to support Middle East peace efforts. He said, however, he had not read the full Soviet text and it always is necessary to read the fine print of Kremlin statements.

$64,000 Quiz Won By Jockey

NEW YORK (INS) — Bill Pearson—the jockey with the amazing knowledge of art—defied "eight-to-one odds against me" to correctly answer the $64,000 question.

Pearson tearfully acknowledged the wild applause of the audience after consuming most of the show's time to reach his goal after five weeks on the show.

Ag College Students Begin Petition Supporting Mitchell

Student repercussions over the demotion of Dr. Clyde Mitchell as head of the University of Nebraska agricultural economics department began to take shape Tuesday.

In a statement by Agricultural College Dean W. V. Lamberti, it was announced that Mitchell would be relieved of his post as chairman of the department, but would be retained as a professor.

Reid Testifies On Statement

Reid testified no other suggestions, except the one disclosed by testimony, were made to Parker while in the room. Miss Wheeler's testimony was similar.

Parker Told

In other testimony, Reid said he questioned Parker from 6:45 to 8 p.m. the second time. "At that point (8 p.m.) Parker told me he had killed his wife," he said.

After the 12-page question-and-answer statement was taken by a court reporter, Reid said Masters remained with Parker for about an hour and a half before the statement was read to Parker and signed.

Parker was booked into the police station at 1:30 a.m. the next morning.

In other questions asked Parker, a defense attorney drew attention to the "inconsistencies" between the statement and "the known facts."

It partially dwelt on the apparent conflicts between birthplace of Darrel, that of his mother and father, and other details of his life.

Similarly, portions of the confession were read as to details of the crime, some of which appeared to conflict with trial testimony thus far.

Frame Of Mind

The attorney told the court the issue on questioning was not to test the truth or falsity of the "confession," but to disclose Parker's frame of mind when he made it.

When asked to explain why he gave certain answers, Parker said "I just can't explain why."

Schelle began cross-examination of Parker before the hearing's evening recess. Most questions were on Parker's early life and the sedatives Parker had taken between Wednesday afternoon of his wife's death and until following Monday.

The defense was expected to call Dr. Douglas M. Kelley, University of California criminologist to testify after the confession matter has been settled.

Mideast Peace Help Offered By Moscow

ARABS' HOPES SLUMP

They Counted On Russian Support

By STANLEY JOHNSON

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union Tuesday urged Israel and the Arab states to settle their conflict and offered to join other nations seeking peaceful solution of unsettled problems of the Middle East.

At the same time, it pledged support of a U.N. program "to find ways and means of strengthening peace in the area of Palestine."

The declaration by the Soviet Foreign Ministry appeared to dash any Arab hopes for automatic Russian support against Israel, although it denounced interference in Arab internal affairs and "the notorious Baghdad Pact" sponsored by the West and unpopular in most Arab states.

Perhaps Eager

Release of this statement on the eve of an official visit to Britain by Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party Secretary Nikita Khrushchev indicated the Soviet leaders are ready—perhaps eager—to discuss the Middle East crisis with British leaders.

Soon after the statement's release at a hastily summoned news conference, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov told reporters at a Syrian embassy Independence Day reception that he thought it would serve as the basis for discussion in London. Molotov said the Soviet Union would agree to work with other nations for Middle East peace either in the United Nations or in separate meetings.

U.S. Secretary of State Dulles told a news conference in Washington he welcomed the Soviet statement and speculated it was a response to President Eisenhower's April 9 statement urging U.N. members to support Middle East peace efforts. He said, however, he had not read the full Soviet text and it always is necessary to read the fine print of Kremlin statements.

Road Driving Chore

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Thurston County commissioners did a double take when the road vouchers came in. Among them was a bill for the services of a skin diver. A creek flooded into a gravel pit during heavy rains, covering an engine. The skin diver was hired to fasten a cable so the engine could be recovered.

$64,000 Quiz Won By Jockey

NEW YORK (INS) — Bill Pearson—the jockey with the amazing knowledge of art—defied "eight to-one odds against me" to correctly answer the $64,000 question.

The diminutive rider from Pasadena, Calif., despite the urging of his wife, mother and his adviser-employer, movie-director John Huston, not to go on, correctly identified the subject, painter and one man with whom each painter studied on six of the world's great works of art on the CBS TV-quiz show.

Pearson tearfully acknowledged the wild applause of the audience after consuming most of the show's time to reach his goal after five weeks on the show.

He explained to master of ceremonies Hal March that his Mexican-born wife, his mother in California and Huston, by phone from Ireland, had all urged him

Ag College Students Begin Petition Supporting Mitchell

Student repercussions over the demotion of Dr. Clyde Mitchell as head of the University of Nebraska agricultural economics department began to take shape Tuesday.

In a statement by Agricultural College Dean W. V. Lambert, it was announced that Mitchell would be relieved of his post as chairman of the department, but would be retained as a professor.

Reid testified no other suggestions, except the one disclosed by testimony, were made to Parker while in the room. Miss Wheeler's testimony was similar.

Parker Told

In other testimony, Reid said he questioned Parker from 6:45 to 8 p.m. the second time. "At that point (8 p.m.) Parker told me he had killed his wife," he said.

After the 12-page question-and-answer statement was taken by a court reporter, Reid said Masters remained with Parker for about an hour and a half before the statement was read to Parker and signed.

Parker was booked into the police station at 1:30 a.m. the next morning.

In other questions asked Parker, a defense attorney drew attention to the "inconsistencies" between the statement and "the known facts."

It partially dwelled on the apparent conflicts between birthplace of Darrel, that of his mother and father, and other details of his life.

Similarly, portions of the confession were read as to details of the crime, some of which appeared to conflict with trial testimony thus far.

Frame of Mind

The attorney told the court the line on questioning was not to test the truth or falsity of the "confession," but to disclose Parker's frame of mind when he made it.

When asked to explain why he gave certain answers, Parker said "I just can't explain why."

Scheele began cross-examination of Parker before the hearing's evening recess. Most questions were on Parker's early life and the sedative Parker had taken between Wednesday afternoon of his wife's death and until following Monday.

The defense was expected to call Dr. Douglas M. Kelley, University of California criminologist to testify after the confession matter has been settled.

Mitchell is presently in Rome as a Fulbright lecturer.

The student protests have taken form of a vote of confidence petition drafted by a special committee of the Agricultural Economics Club, a 33-member group of rural economic students.

Being Circulated

A spokesman for the club said the petition was already being circulated and a copy had been forwarded to the administration. The signed petition, he said, will be presented to officials unless they request it, he said.

The purpose of gathering signatures, he continued, is to show that it is a "unity affair" with student backing.

The statement said, "We are unhappy disturbed about the announcement that Prof. Mitchell is being replaced as chairman. We feel that the consequences that will ensue from such a decision will seriously impair our academic pursuits within the department of agricultural economics and within the university."

Make Thoughts Known

The purpose of the document, the statement continued, was to make the thoughts of students known with respect to the decision. It continued that the people of the state and students were fortunate to have Mitchell as department chairman.

"We feel certain that he has done much to advance the standards of his department during his seven years of tenure."

The statement continued that his students "have found him to be a most interesting, inspiring, thought-provoking and stimulating lecturer."

"... We and most other students on the agricultural campus regard him with great esteem," the statement said.

Said 'Valuable'

"We appreciate the opportunity to examine objectively our socio-economic concepts from the various prevailing viewpoints that exist," the statement said.

The statement concluded, "We believe that Professor Mitchell, through his exercise of academic freedom, provides us with valuable food for thought in his analysis of economic concepts; and while we may not agree wholeheartedly with his viewpoint in all respects, (as would be the case with anyone lecturing in the field) we most assuredly agree with his right to express his honest convictions regardless of how these convictions may differ from the immediate consensus."

Scheele began cross-examination of Parker before the hearing's evening recess. Most questions were on Parker's early life and the sedative Parker had taken between Wednesday afternoon of his wife's death and until following Monday.

The defense was expected to call Dr. Douglas M. Kelley, University of California criminologist to testify after the confession matter has been settled.

Treasury Chief Humphrey Says Taxes Too High, Should Be Cut

Revenue May Be $2 Billion More Than Estimates

WASHINGTON (INS) — Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey said that taxes are too high and it was disclosed that government revenue for the current fiscal year may be two billion dollars more than President Eisenhower's estimates.

Humphrey told the House Post Office Committee that the nation is nearing the point of diminishing returns on taxes and said "They are too high and should be reduced."

He gave no indication, however, that the administration plans to ask Congress to reduce taxes at this time. President Eisenhower has opposed a tax cut this year, and has insisted that the moderate budget surplus he has forecast should be used to reduce the public debt.

Above Level

In other quarters, it was revealed that tax collections for the current 1956 fiscal year are running "appreciably" above the level anticipated by the President in his January budget message to Congress.

The size of the spring income tax harvest will not be known for awhile. But experts said preliminary indications are that total tax collections for the current fiscal year, which ends June 30, will be perhaps as much as two or even three billions above the budget estimate of $64,500,000,000.

Internal Revenue Service district offices throughout the country were said to be deluged by the usual avalanche of late returns. Experience is that about 25 percent of the total returns are filed near the deadline, which fell Monday.

Over Estimate

The amount of tax withheld from pay checks is reported to be running at the present time about 700 million dollars above the budget estimate. Corporation taxes are also said to be exceeding expectations.

One expert said that individual income taxes probably will be one billion dollars above the President's budget forecast for the current year, and that corporation tax collections may also be a billion higher.

If this proves correct, the budget surplus for the current year likely will be substantially higher than the $30 million the President predicted. However, Humphrey said recently that government spending may be a billion higher than was forecast in the budget.

Tentative Jury Is Passed In Graham Trial

DENVER (INS) — A tentative eight-man, five-woman jury was passed by both sides "for cause" in the John Gilbert Graham murder trial, leaving both the prosecution and defense with 15 peremptory challenges in selecting a final trial jury.

District Attorney Bert Keating and defense attorney John Gibbons immediately used one challenge each, and an effort was made to fill the jury vacancies as court adjourned for the day, the second of the sensational trial.

Prior to both sides passing the jurors "for cause" no potential juror could be excused with adequate reason. The peremptory challenges simply mean either side can excuse a talesman without stating a reason.

Young 24-year-old Graham is specifically charged with one murder—that of his mother, Mrs. Daisie King, who with 43 others, met death in the blow-up of the plane 11 minutes after it took off from Denver last Nov. 1.

Lawyers for the prosecution and defense—three on each side—spared legally throughout the day in questioning prospective jurors.

Graham appeared to realize he is in the midst of a fight to save himself from the gas chamber. Nearly attire in a grey suit, he sat beside his attorneys and listened carefully to meticulously-worded questions put to the men and women talesmen with keen interest.

The young defendant, whose crew hair cut accentuates his boyish appearance, is accused of having placed a time bomb apparatus in his mother's luggage just before she boarded the plane. He had taken out several policies on her life from airport insurance vending machines.

Fire Drops Tank Into Basement

Fire starting near a water heater burned through the floor of a one-story house at 2930 No. 11, dropping the heater through the floor into the basement.

The blaze was reported by Robert Nixon, resident in the home. Firemen put down the blaze around the heater, located between the living room and bathroom. A large hole was burned in a partition between the heater and kitchen.

The gas heater plunged through the main floor and into the basement.

Damage to the home was estimated at several hundred dollars.

The Civic Singfest Committee will sponsor the event.

Oscar Bennett will be the director. Fern Casford and Arnold Folsom are in charge of the production.

The exposition is set for May 11 and 12 at the State Fair Grounds Exposition Building. Projects of Cub Scouts, Scouts and Explorers will be on display.

The exposition is set for May 11 and 12 at the State Fair Grounds Exposition Building. Projects of Cub Scouts, Scouts and Explorers will be on display.

Speeches on various agricultural subjects were on the closing-day program. Highlights of the three-day convention included speeches by Marvin McLain, assistant to the Secretary of Agriculture, and by Capt. The Doctor Is Right

Dr. E. A. Rogers, state director of health, has filled his glass with sparkling spring water and delivered a hearty toast to Nebraska's pure air.

The good doctor reminds the citizens of this wide open country that they are taking one of nature's greatest blessings too much for granted. We have just loads and loads of pure uncontaminated, virtually non-disease bearing air. We should emphasize that especially when we discuss the state's merits to outsiders looking for a place to live.

To many Nebraskans the doctor's enthusiasm for air—Nebraska air—may seem a little overdone. But that just proves what he said. They are taking a good thing too much for granted. Smog, contaminated air is a formidable problem in so many heavily populated areas. Ask a Pittsburgher or a metropolitan resident of that glorious sunshiny state of California. Were the doctor speaking to them he would have an avid audience.

We will go along with Dr. Rogers. He is presiding over some of the world's most wonderful air. We will applaud his remarks to the sky but when no one is looking we and quite a few others would like to whisper something in his ear. Can't be just warm this air up a little bit?

So Typically American!

The stirring cry of "Play Ball" echoed in the land. In America's major leagues new teams sprang from the dugouts and spread across the diamond. Batters dug in at the plate. The first ball of the season, white and new, started its flight. The winter weary crowds tensed themselves for action. The 1956 pennant seasons were under way.

So it has been for years and so it is again—the changeless game, so American, so virile, so expert and so representative. It wouldn't be spring. It wouldn't be America without baseball.

Small Consolation

Nebraska agriculture awoke to a gray dawn the day after the congressional farm bill died by presidential veto.

Initial feelings on the farms were mixed over both the character of the ill-fated bill and over the propriety of the veto. But they had one common characteristic—disappointment. A declining agricultural economy saw its basic remedies postponed—delayed when they most urgently needed action.

Blind words did not reach the spot nor heal anything. The differences in objective of the administration and the operating farmers remain unchanged. To the administration it is the elimination of surpluses with their cost and headaches. To the operating farmer it is to earn enough to stay in business.

The veto promised no betterment for Nebraska agriculture. The President's initial directive to increase price supports did not bring them up to last year's level. They only canceled out even lower ones previously planned by the administration for 1956.

And there is the 1956 corn allotment requiring less planting by 900,000 acres than last year. The production loss may be softened by the hint that in event of non-compliance a floor of $1.12 a bushel will be established. But in terms of income it would take an historic crop to pick up the difference in terms of needed farm earnings. And an historic crop will not contribute to the administration's war on surpluses.

The Senate Way

The question of how big and how sovereign the Tennessee Valley Authority ought to be has been a plaguing one for some time.

The Eisenhower administration moved to put a ceiling on it with the now defunct effort to supply new power needs through contract with private power, Dixon-Yates in this instance.

Now the House and Senate has the question of how TVA shall finance additional generating facilities. The House has approved it through TVA revenues, which is a form of granting discretion to the authority. But the Senate has provided in the appropriations bill the needed funds. The contrasting approaches will either ultimately nullify each other or resolve the status of the TVA.

But so long as the public mind remains divided there is a preference for the Senate's approach. It is one that provides for TVA growth, but does not impair congressional rights to constrain and restrain the massive agency.

Softer Life

Nikita S. Khrushchev has asked several hundred thousand young Russians to forsake the cities and go to Siberia to found great new industrial communities. That sounds like things have greatly changed in Russia. Until recently they just rounded them up for a one way trip to that place, no questions answered. But perhaps we should wait and see. It is still a good bet that when the train is ready to go Russia will get it filled, volunteers or not.

You're Wrong

About the time one feels he has mastered the meaning of American words something happens to dash his confidence. The National Geographic Magazine did a little of it in giving out the names of some unusual jobs. For instance, a flapper is a male copper worker, a boarder removes wrinkles from nylon stockings, a tipper dresses poultry and a keep-off girl searches insurance reports for suspicious losses. And if you think pretzel peeler uses a paring knife, you are wrong. He simply shovels pretzels on a conveyor belt.

Zhukov Visit An Expedient?

WASHINGTON — It isn't supposed to be announced, but plans are under discussion to have Marshal Zhukov, Eisenhower's wartime co-commander in Germany visit the United States in September or October.

For some time the Kremlin's two rovers, Khrushchev and Bulganin, have been discreetly hinting that they might like to visit the USA. This has been met with State Department rebuffs, for to welcome the two Soviet sightseers in an election year is considered poor political strategy plus a real security problem. The job of protecting Khrushchev and Bulganin from the many refugees and White Russians in this country makes a secret service men's shudder.

However, when Marshal Zhukov hinted, during a diplomatic reception in Moscow, that he might like to come to the USA, there was a more favorable response.

In the first place, Zhukov is considered the rising strong man of Russia. Second, the visit of an army man who is not an active communist would sit better with the American public. Third, such a visit would further the idea that President Eisenhower, through his wartime associations, might lead the USA toward a Russian-American peace.

The plan is still in the discussion stage, but the chances are strong that Marshal Zhukov will come to Washington for a call on his old wartime buddy during the height of the election campaign.

DEMS DISHONOR WILSON

Worst egg the Democratic National Committee has laid in a long time is looming Saturday night when the biggest Democratic dinner of the year is expected to be held in a half-empty armory.

Instead of making money for the already-in-debt Democrats, it will put them in the light of failing to honor a great Democratic hero, Woodrow Wilson, and of being woefully incapable of matching Len Hall's triumph when he collected $3,000,000 at Madison Square Garden Jan. 30 for Ike.

Monaco Once Was Pirates' Hangout

MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — In this political year, the charge of a part-time President is bound to grow in volume. It results, in part, from the extensive discussion of President Eisenhower's health and the debate over whether he would run again.

But a look at the record shows that the heart attack has made comparatively little difference in his approach to the most difficult and demanding office in the world. The Eisenhower concept of the office differs markedly from that of his predecessors.

It is the chain-of-command concept under which broad authority is delegated to subordinates. They are responsible for success or failure in their separate departments. This is shown most clearly in the record of the President's public addresses during his first term.

His predecessors felt it was part of their duty to go directly to the public with policies which they wanted Congress and the public to accept. Again and again to nationwide audiences on radio and after the war on television, Presidents Roosevelt and Truman explained, expounded and persuaded. This was outside the campaign periods when the speeches they made were strictly political.

But Mr. Eisenhower has rarely gone to the public. The record shows that aside from the 1954 campaign he has been on radio and or television 40 times during his first term.

This includes brief recorded greetings to special groups. It includes remarks on the annual lighting of the White House Christmas tree and informal participation in the Back-To-God rallies. It also includes some talks with an avowed political objective, although they were not given in a campaign.

Of the total 17 or 18 speeches can be said to deal with issues.

The appeal to public opinion by persuasion and exposition is raised acutely now by two controversies—one domestic and one foreign—now confronting the administration.

The President's farm program has been brushed aside by Congress in favor of the old rigid price support system. While several warnings against this action have come from the White House, the President never has taken his case to the public. Now he has explained to a nationwide audience what is wrong with the bill passed by Congress. But a forthright appeal earlier might have enlisted sufficient public support for his farm program.

On the issue of his foreign aid program, again it is the President alone who can make the case. There is evidence of considerable public support for expanded foreign aid and for a commitment up to ten years in some instances. A presidential speech explaining the whys and wherefores might focus this support, although the President already may have waited too long.

Attitudes on the foreign aid program in Congress have hardened Democrats and some Republicans are resentful over the way the administration cut back the program last year so, it is charged, the budget was not done.

One of the obligations of a President is to articulate the needs, the aspirations, the hopes and the ideals of the people. In the words of Woodrow Wilson, he must be "the spokesman for the real sentiment and purpose of the country."

This President Eisenhower has not done. This phase of the presidency is alien to his experience and background. In the chain of command, an order is an order and there is no need to persuade anyone to carry it out.

(Copyright 1956 by U.P. Syndicate, Inc.)

Ike Reshapes Presidency

It could be balanced in this election year. Now, to make up for those cuts, a much larger sum is requested. The Democrats also feel the administration has failed to sustain the bipartisan approach to foreign policy.

This would seem to be an issue ready-made for the man who repeatedly has expressed his determination to be President of all the people. If in February or even in mid-March he had carried his case to the country, it might have made the difference. As it is, the outcome is highly doubtful.

Before he entered the White House, Mr. Eisenhower made many eloquent speeches. As the first supreme commander of the North Atlantic Alliance, he preached the cause of European unity with a vigor and a forcefulness that contributed a great deal to his reputation as a politico-military statesman. Those speeches helped to advance him on the road to the presidency.

Yet once in the White House he seemed to suffer from all sorts of inhibitions.

For one thing, the caliber of his speechwriters has not been high.

He has had few who have been willing or able to spark discussion of the great issues of the day.

And the mechanics of television may have had something to do with the President's lack of ease in his infrequent public speeches. They have made him ill at ease before the TV cameras.

Given the proper setting and a theme close to his heart, the President has demonstrated that he can rise to an occasion.

In December, 1953, he flew directly from the Bermuda conference to the United Nations in New York. Before the General Assembly, he made the atoms for peace proposal. He spoke with an intensity of conviction that impressed the audience before him and that carried to the far larger audience that saw and heard him on radio and TV.

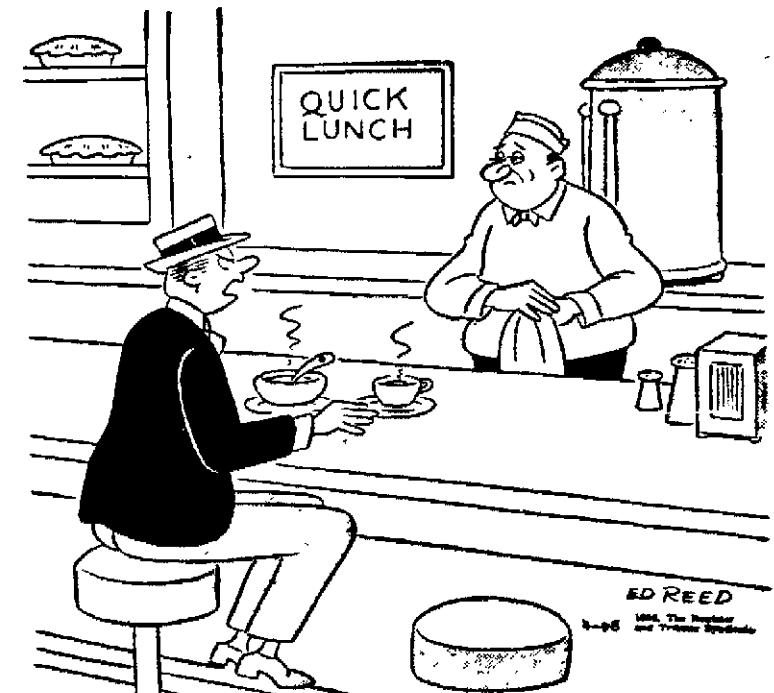

The atoms for peace proposal, which captured the imagination of the country and the world, is one of the rare instances in which the President has gone outside the conventional mould to strike a new and dramatic note. Too often his speeches have consisted of well-intentioned platitudes.

One of the obligations of a President is to articulate the needs, the aspirations, the hopes and the ideals of the people. In the words of Woodrow Wilson, he must be "the spokesman for the real sentiment and purpose of the country."

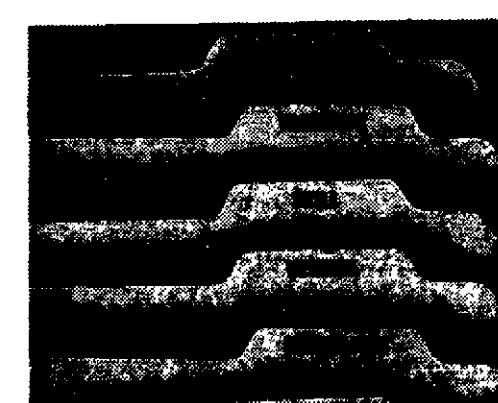

This President Eisenhower has not done. This phase of the presidency is alien to his experience and background. In the chain of command, an order is an order and there is no need to persuade anyone to carry it out.

The ways of our children to trouble seem planned.

Little boy, little girl very few understand.

At home and alone where no stranger can see

As good as you'd have then the children will be.

They'll speak when they're spoken to, come when you call.

If you're busy they'll make no disturbance at all.

But when company comes into temper, they'll burst;

When you hope for their best they will be at their worst.

Let the minister visit. When he steps inside

That bright little fellow will run off and hide.

If a question is asked, though you know he has heard,

To your shame and your sorrow, he won't say a word.

Politicians think they know the difference. They do not think Benson has the strength of 10 because his heart is pure. They are confident it is because he agrees with Milton Eisenhower, the brother of the President, he is so smart.

Benson has signed: "When I've friends in for tea

They never will show them how nice they can be.

In the presence of strangers they seem to go wild."

But that has been over the way of a child.

Every mother has signed: "When

I've friends in for tea

They never will show them how nice they can be.

In the presence of strangers they seem to go wild."

But that has been over the way of a child.

As of this writing, 800 tickets are sold for the armory which seats 3,000 people. Tragic probability is that Democratic speakers will be extolling Woodrow Wilson to 2,000 empty chairs.

Monaco Once Was Pirates' Hangout

MONTE CARLO — The beautiful young princess-to-be arrived of Monaco while the dashing prince eagerly awaited her. But suddenly the mother of the bride said: "We won't move another inch. Let him come out to our ship and fetch you."

The prince adamantly refused to budge farther than the agreed upon landing place, instead he sent a bemused emissary. Discussions and negotiations continued for more than a week during which time her ship had to take refuge at Bordighera. Finally an uncle of the bride came up with a brilliant solution which was accepted by both sides. A wooden bridge was built between the girl's galley and the quay off, which the prince had refused to budge—and the two lovers and their families set simultaneously to effect a meeting in the middle of the bridge.

As you may suspect, none of this had anything to do with Grace Patricia Kelly or Prince Rainier III. It happened in 1757 as one of the events of the marriage of Prince Honore II to Marie Catherine de Brignole Sale, whose rich influential Italian father regarded Honore as a bum.

But then railroad facilities improved, tourists swarmed in, and the casino has enabled generations of players to take a bath.

Had To Like It

WASHINGTON — Republican leaders meeting here had no choice but to be brave about President Eisenhower's veto of the farm bill, having staked their party's future on the theme that he is the indispensable man. So they muted their comments and minimized their forebodings.

All the pressure on the President to sign the bill had come from Republicans. Democrats kept quiet, planning to claim credit if Eisenhower signed out figuring that a veto gave them the issue in much more concrete and personal form.

For some experienced Republicans, the specter of GOP farm state governors calling on a Republican president to sign a farm bill and being turned away bootless brought reminiscent shivers.

Over Republican farm state protests, both Presidents Coolidge and Hoover vetoed the McNary-Haugen bill, a precursor of present farm legislation, during the pre-depression years of the GOP ascendancy.

President Eisenhower consented to receive GOP governors Fred Hall of Kansas, Leo A. Hoegh of Iowa and Joe F. Foss of South Dakota before his action was announced. But since the long veto message reached the Capitol shortly afterward, it was obvious they had practically conferred over the mimeograph machines.

The disappointed governors tried

Before he entered the White House, Mr. Eisenhower made many eloquent speeches. As the first supreme commander of the North Atlantic Alliance, he preached the cause of European unity with a vigor and a forcefulness that contributed a great deal to his reputation as a politico-military statesman. Those speeches helped to advance him on the road to the presidency.

Yet once in the White House he seemed to suffer from all sorts of inhibitions.

For one thing, the caliber of his speechwriters has not been high. He has had few who have been willing or able to spark discussion of the great issues of the day.

Given the proper setting and a theme close to his heart, the President has demonstrated that he can rise to an occasion.

In December, 1953, he flew directly from the Bermuda conference to the United Nations in New York. Before the General Assembly, he made the atoms for peace proposal.

As a result of politics, the Air Force base proposal to protect Detroit and Chicago from enemy bombers is two full years behind schedule; and the delay has sent $500,000 of the taxpayers' money down the drain.

But I happen to know the other side. Small farmers are selling out and leaving the farm and the racketeers are waiting. I recently heard one make the remark that "in another year or two one could buy farm land at his own price, and he was going to be ready to get his share."

Do you think he will vote? Of course he will, and will influence as many others as he can.

Are the farmers going to be so spineless as to stand back and play into these racketeers' hands? I surely hope not.

On top of all this, we are heavily taxed to pay an enormous foreign aid bill. We must buy peace with whose generosity? Why not send them a few million surplus bushels to feed the hungry? Maybe bushels of grain would be a burden to those who handle the cash. It probably would be most interesting to learn how much of our tax dollar reaches the needy.

I HOPE YOU VOTE

Consolidated Billing

North Platte, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The editorial, "Somewhat Belated," in the Monday morning Star was interesting. I was especially interested in that part having to do with the contention we have had in the past that municipalities have consolidated billing.

I do not believe municipalities are entitled to consolidated billing; and, in addition, I do not believe Consumers Public Power District is entitled to consolidated billing.

Do you know that the large block of power that Consumers buys from Nebraska Public Power System in Lincoln makes it possible for it to earn a lower rate at York, at Norfolk, and its many other points of delivery, and that it can buy power at Kearney cheaper than Platte Valley can buy a like amount at the McCook substation?

I am pointing this out only to demonstrate that the contention of the cities that they should have consolidated billing arose because of the fact that Nebraska Public Power System very unwisely in 1946 granted Consumers consolidated billing.

At this point of time, we are out on a limb or the President is, in either case, little

The 1956 recipients of the University of Nebraska Foundation awards for distinguished teaching are Dr. William K. Pfeiler, professor of Germanic languages, and James S. Blackman, associate professor of engineering mechanics.

Each carrying a $1,000 stipend and a medallion, the awards were presented at the 28th annual Honors Convocation by Arthur A. Dobson of Lincoln, Foundation president.

Dr. Pfeiler received his award for distinguished teaching in the national reputation as a scholar and teacher.

Senior students, particularly honor students, in the College of Arts and Sciences assisted in making nominations from the college.

Selection of Blackman as a representative from the College of Engineering and Architecture was made with the assistance of graduates of the classes of 1949, '50, and '51.

Awakened Interest

Blackman was cited "for his ability to awaken an interest in his students to the fact that the courses were not an end to themselves but merely a step to greater and more interesting fields of knowledge."

"He also is able to create a vital interest in his subject, thus encouraging questions and discussions concerning the subject and its relationship to other courses or fields of learning," the recommendation said.

Dr. Pfeiler, also chairman of the department of Germanic languages and literature, is a keen student of history and foreign affairs.

Once a German citizen, he came to the U.S. and to the university in 1926. He received his American citizenship in 1932. One of the university's most popular speakers, Dr. Pfeiler has traveled extensively in Europe and has studied and visited France, England, Spain, Germany, and Balkan countries.

Five Industries Operating At Kearney

Expansion Plans Told By 4 Firms

Three organizations are spearheading Kearney's industrial effort. Five industries are in operation, another with full-scale production soon and two others in prospect. Kearney's story is told in detail with a series of articles about industrial prospects and potential of Nebraska cities.

By ROD RIGGS

Kearney Daily Hub
KEARNEY, Neb. (AP)—Co-ordinated efforts of three Kearney organizations—plus the help of the Nebraska Resources Division—are showing up in the city's campaign to secure industry.

There now are five industries which have been operating from one to five years; a sixth is in the process of getting settled here. Negotiations are under way with two additional industries, and a decision is hoped for by late 1956.

If there is a choice, Kearney would rather have 10 industries in various fields of manufacturing, each employing 100 for a total of 1,000 persons, than to have one industry employing 1,000 persons. It provides better diversification—and a better chance for a more stable economy. Kearney backers explain.

A survey of the five industries now operating here shows total employment to be 154 persons—but expansion plans by four of the five indicate the employment will go over the 300 mark by the end of the year.

Industries Listed

The breakdown, by industry, shows:

Bear Brand Hosiery Co.—Now employing 44 persons for a two-shift operation of nine full-fashion women's hosiery knitting machines. By year's end, 14 machines will be operating on a three-shift basis, with employment reaching 90 or more, for a production level of 3,000 dozen pairs of hose per week.

J. A. Baldwin Manufacturing Co.—Present employment level is 54, in manufacture of cotton-packed filter elements for cars, trucks and tractors. Addition of new production line for paper-element filters will double the number of employees.

Convair Mobile Homes—A "home-grown" industry which started in 1955, manufacturing ultra-luxurious house trailers, reaching output of 15 per month, the firm has signed a contract with Palace Corp. of Flint, Mich., to manufacture Palace Ranch-homes. Present schedule calls for one per day, increasing to one every four hours in near future. Ultimate employment will be over 65 persons.

Caldwell Manufacturing Co.—Now producing evaporative-type automobile air conditioner, to be put on market April 1. On basis of present orders, the firm will be producing 100 units daily, employing 50 to 60 persons on three-shift operation.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY
Mrs. Dan Gerber
(MOTHER OF 5)

The whims and ways of a toddler are strange indeed. There's a declaration of independence one minute—a plaintive call for help the next. As guardian angel of that little go-getter, it's up to you to decide when to guide and when to let the help-yourself rule prevail. Sometimes takes a bit of doing, but with patience, perception and a full quota of common sense you'll manage.

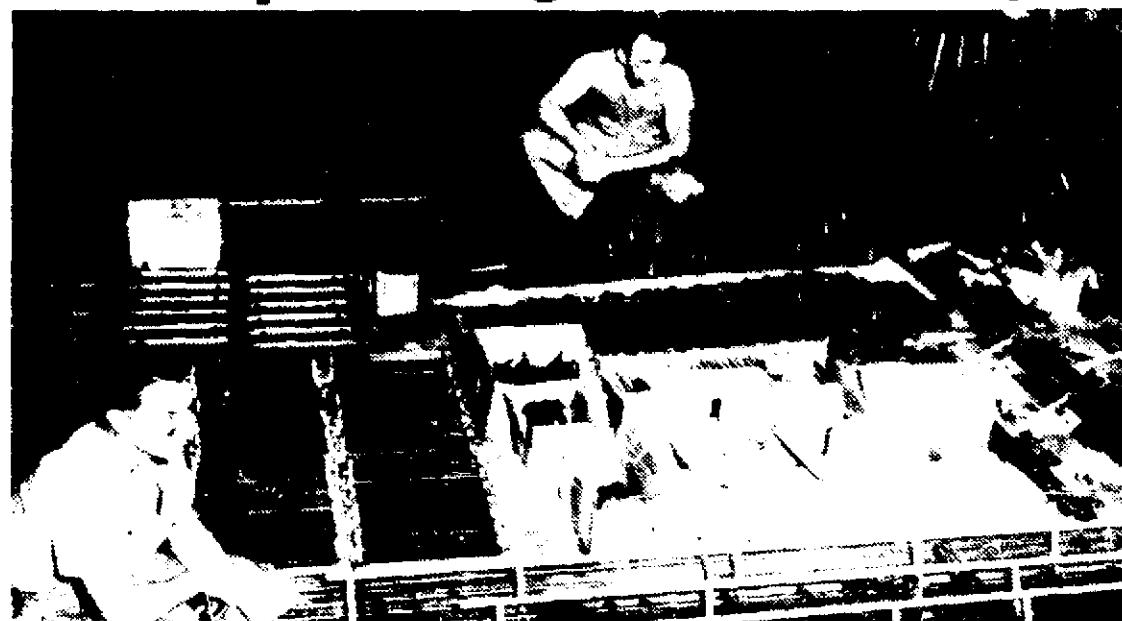

Toddlers are notorious for developing eating whims along about that first birthday. But, if you're patient, get a real lift when you serve Gerber Junior Foods. For these carefully prepared foods have the tempting, true-to-nature flavors and appetizing colors that tickle a toddler's palate. A tender, evenly minced texture makes Gerber Junior Foods just right for tots learning to chew!

Sip tips. Toddlers can often be encouraged to drink more milk if you: (1) Use an amusing mug or paper cup. (2) Let him sip milk from a brightly colored cellophane straw.

Safety measures. Curiosity is second nature to a toddler, and the kitchen is a wonderful spot to whet that curiosity... with the stove a big attraction. Safety reminders:

- Use back burners first. Turn pot handles inward. Cover spattering grease.
- Don't leave matches, knives or scissors near edge of work area.

New, and mouth-watering, too. That's Gerber Junior Macaroni, Tomato, Beef and Bacon Soup—a delightful casserole combination that's almost sure to make a little appetite "rise and shine." Nourishing, too, because it provides energy-giving carbohydrates, strength-giving protein, valuable vitamins and minerals. Gerber Baby Foods. President, Michigan.

Four Knitting Machines In Operation

It's a small job to overhaul a knitting machine like those used in the Bear Brand Hosiery Co. plant in Kearney. Four such machines are now being overhauled after being brought to Kearney from Gary, Ind. Richard Heung, left, assistant plant

producing millions door and window frames, in custom orders.

A major manufacturer of irrigation pumps has increased the force. Service Pipe line pumping station west of Kearney, and, after removing no heavy machinery, will get into production this summer. The Memphis Tenn. firm has not announced the size of plant, which purchased an industrial operator planned, not installed a tract and constructed a building and in one year persons will be employed there and the engaged immediately.

Speaking the industrial situation, which operates the 800-foot in Kearney, are the then never visited Kearney Air Base.

Five Industries Operating At Kearney

Expansion Plans Told By 4 Firms

Three organizations are spearheading Kearney's industrial effort. Five industries are in operation, another will get into production soon and two others are in prospect. The series of articles told in this, the 11th of a series of articles about industrial prospects and potential of Nebraska cities.

By ROD RIGGS
Kearney Daily Hub

KEARNEY, Neb. (P)—Co-ordinated efforts of three Kearney organizations—plus the help of the Nebraska Resources Division—are showing up in the city's campaign to secure industry.

There now are five industries which have been operating from one to five years; a sixth is in the process of "getting settled" here. Negotiations are under way with two additional industries, and a decision is hoped for by late 1956.

If there is a choice, Kearney would rather have 10 industries in various fields of manufacturing, each employing 100 for a total of 1,000 persons, than to have one industry employing 1,000 persons. It provides better diversification—and a better chance for a more stable economy. Kearney backers explain.

A survey of the five industries now operating here shows total employment to be 154 persons—but expansion plans by four of the five indicate the employment will go over the 300 mark by the end of the year.

Industries Listed

The breakdown, by industry, shows:

Bear Brand Hosiery Co.—Now employing 44 persons for a two-shift operation of nine full-fashion women's hosiery knitting machines. By year's end, 14 machines will be operating on a three-shift basis, with employment reaching 90 or more, for a production level of 3,000 dozen pairs of hose per week.

J. A. Baldwin Manufacturing Co.—Present employment level is 54, in manufacture of cotton-packed filter elements for cars, trucks and tractors. Addition of new production line for paper-element filters will double the number of employees.

Convair Mobile Homes—A "home-grown" industry which started in 1955, manufacturing ultra-luxurious house trailers, reaching output of 15 per month, the firm has signed a contract with Palace Corp. of Flint, Mich., to manufacture Palace Ranch-homes. Present schedule calls for one per day, increasing to one every four hours in near future. Ultimate employment will be over 65 persons.

Caldwell Manufacturing Co.—Now producing evaporative-type automobile air conditioner, to be put on market April 1. On basis of present orders, the firm will be producing 100 units daily, employing 50 to 60 persons on three-shift operation.

Nelson Woodworking Co.—Peak employment 12 to 14 persons, in

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY
Mrs. Dan Gerber
(MOTHER OF 5)

The whims and ways of a toddler are strange indeed. There's a declaration of independence one minute—a plaintive call for help the next. As guardian angel of that little go-getter, it's up to you to decide when to guide and when to let the help-yourself rule prevail. Sometimes takes a bit of doing, but with patience, perception and a full quota of common sense you'll manage.

Toddlers are notorious for developing eating whims along about that first birthday. But lagging appetites often get a real lift when you serve Gerber Junior Foods. For these carefully prepared foods have the tempting, true-to-nature flavors and appetizing colors that tickle a toddler's palate. A tender, evenly minced texture makes Gerber Junior Foods just right for tots learning to chew!

Sip tips. Toddlers can often be encouraged to drink more milk if you: (1) Use an amusing mug or paper cup. (2) Let him sip milk from a brightly colored cellophane straw.

Safety measures. Curiosity is second nature to a toddler, and the kitchen is a wonderful spot to whet that curiosity. . . . with the stove a big attraction. Safety reminders:

- Use back burners first. Turn pot handles inward. Cover sputtering grease.
- Don't leave matches, knives or scissors near edge of working area.

New, and mouth-watering, too. That's Gerber Junior Macaroni, Tomato, Beef and Bacon Soup—a delightful casserole combination that's almost sure to make a little appetite "rise and shine." Nourishing, too, because it provides energy-giving carbohydrates, strength-giving proteins, valuable vitamins and minerals. Gerber Baby Foods, Fremont, Michigan.

Four Knitting Machines In Operation

It's no small job to overhaul a knitting machine like those in the Bear Brand Hosiery plant in Kearney. Four such machines are now being overhauled after being brought to Kearney from Gary, Ind. Richard Heinig, left, assistant plant

A major manufacturer of irrigation pumps has purchased the former Service Pipe Line pumping station west of Kearney, and, after removing the heavy machinery will get into production this summer. The Memphis, Tenn., firm has not announced the scale of operation planned, but indicated a minimum of 15 persons will be employed initially.

Spearheading the industrial effort in Kearney are the Chamber

Further Wind, Erosion Research Planned

Preliminary Work Starts This Spring

University of Nebraska agricultural research on control of wind erosion in western Nebraska wheat land will be intensified. Dr. F. L. Duley, of the U.S.D.A. Agricultural Research Service, said preliminary work is starting

Nebraska News

This spring at the University's Box Butte agricultural experiment station near Alliance.

The research program will seek more information on:

(1) The capacity of residue (wheat stubble and straw) left on the surface to resist wind erosion of summer fallow land.

(2) The effectiveness of various types of tillage equipment for fallowing land and at the same time preserve the surface residue.

(3) The determination of costs involved in various methods and frequencies of tilling summer fallow land.

(4) The effectiveness of various cultivation practices in controlling weeds.

(5) The effectiveness of chemical treatment of weeds, particularly cheat grass.

Dr. Dudley said this program is made possible in part by the gift of the University of a half-section of wheat land by the Box Butte County commissioners.

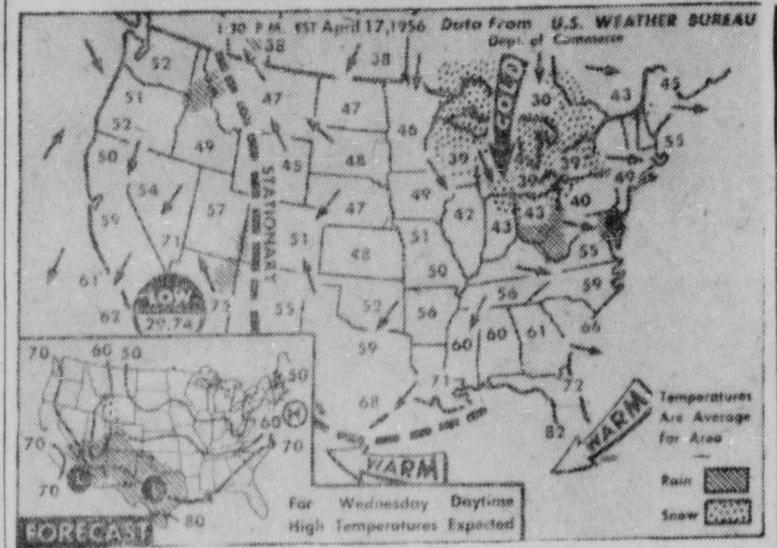

Mrs. Campbell Dies; Won Suit Saving Home

HORDVILLE, Neb. — Funeral services were held here for Mrs. Lavina Campbell, 91, Hordville widow who saved her home two years ago in the Nebraska Supreme Court from being taken away for a $5.55 coal bill.

A resident of this vicinity for 30 years, Mrs. Campbell lost her savings when the Hordville Lumber Co. went bankrupt. At the same time she owned the lumber firm $85.55 for coal.

District Court decisions at Aurora and in the Supreme Court prevented liens against her property because of homestead rights. The home was her only property.

New Features Are Announced For This Year's Farmers Fair

The annual Farmers Fair at the University of Nebraska will have a new look when it gets underway May 11 and 12 on the College of Agriculture campus.

Allen Trenkle, senior from Hay Springs and president of the Farmers Fair board, says the show has been revised to provide a continuous chain of events over the two-day period.

New features of the Fair this year include a Block and Bridle Showmanship contest, a Quarter Horse show, and a "kiddies" contest. Details of the "kiddies" event will be announced later.

Dixie Solons Get Civil Rights Bill Pigeonholed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Southerners of the House Judiciary committee won a victory Tuesday as civil rights legislation was shelved at least temporarily.

The Southerners sparked a successful move to return rival civil rights proposals to a Judiciary subcommittee for further study. The vote was 14 to 1.

The action affected both President Eisenhower's recommendations and broader measures sponsored by Chairman Celler (D-N.Y.).

Celler and Rep. Keating of New York, the ranking committee Republican, forecast action perhaps next week—to bring a civil rights bill to the House floor.

But Rep. Willis (D-La.) said: "They'll have a fight on their hands."

It was Willis who moved to return the proposals to the subcommittee when the full committee was given a choice between the two bills. He argued that the administration plan sponsored by Keating had not been considered by the subcommittee, which had approved the Celler measure earlier.

Celler said Chairman Long (D-Mass.) of the subcommittee had been asked to "get expedited action" from that group. He said he expects the full committee to vote out a civil rights bill at a meeting next Tuesday.

Supporters of civil rights legislation had hoped for early final action on the bill in the capital administration recommended.

Dixie Solons Get Civil Rights Bill Pigeonholed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Southerners members of the House Judiciary committee won a victory Tuesday as civil rights legislation was shelved, at least temporarily.

The Southerners sparked a successful move to return rival civil rights proposals to a Judiciary subcommittee for further study. The vote was 14-13.

The action affected both President Eisenhower's recommendations and a broader measure sponsored by Chairman Celler (D-NY).

Celler and Rep. Keating of New York, the ranking committee Republican, forecast action—perhaps next week—to bring a civil rights bill to the House floor.

But Rep. Willis (D-La) said, "They'll have a fight on their hands."

It was Willis who moved to return the proposals to the subcommittee when the full committee was given a choice between the two bills. He argued that the administration plan, sponsored by Keating, had not been considered by the subcommittee, which had approved the Celler measure earlier.

Celler said Chairman Lane (D-Mass) of the subcommittee has been asked to "get expeditious action" from that group. He said he expects the full committee will vote out a civil rights bill at a meeting next Tuesday.

Supporters of civil rights legislation had hoped for early favorable action on at least the principal administration recommendations.

Since January, 1955, Dr. Gysin has been director of professional services at the Veterans Administration hospital in Lexington. He was chief of the neuro-psychiatric service at the veterans hospital in Omaha from 1951 to 1955.

The announcement said that he is 58 years of age, married and licensed to practice medicine in Nebraska. He has had extensive experience in administration, treatment and teaching in psychiatric hospitals.

Each hospital will have to stay within the maximum budgets set at the meeting. He said the figures set will be the maximum and will relieve the Board of considerable detail.

"We are gradually getting staffed," Mrs. Catherine Martin, chairman, commented.

During shortages of help, Leeman said, superintendents will be given full authority to employ personnel, but not a higher standard than the vacancy which exists. He said this should relieve many complaints.

Moisture Still Could Fix Wheat ... But Need Great

If enough moisture is received, Nebraska's winter wheat could still produce a satisfactory crop. But it will take more than has been the pattern for the last six months.

Precipitation during the half the State Federal weekly crop reports said Tuesday year ending April 1 totaled 45 per cent of normal for the state, according to the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics. The eastern section received shortest amount.

Despite moisture this month 69 per cent of the counties report soil surface moisture and 92 per cent of the counties lack sufficient soil moisture, the report said.

Most wheat made satisfactory progress last week but low temperatures and some damage from wind and cutworms brought a slight drop in average condition for the state.

Winter kill was much lower than expected, considering the dry weather, the report said.

Temperatures have been too low for oats and barley. About 88 per cent of the oats has been seeded and 73 per cent of the barley is up to date. The report said no land for corn is up yet.

Other Crops

Wheat, wild grass and pasture are now due large to cool weather. Some cutworms are reported in the state.

The current outlook for pasture is unfavorable. Some farmers are short of feed for cattle. The animals have been taken off wheat pasture and there is little other pasture available.

Generally weather has been favorable for calves, pigs and lambs.

Precipitation in eastern Nebraska in the past six months has ranged from 31 to 42 per cent of normal. The central portion has averaged 44 per cent of normal and the Panhandle, 61 per cent of normal.

Percentage of normal precipitation for the six month period: West 61 per cent, North Central 54, Northeast 42, Central 44, East Central 35, Southwest 46, South Central 43, Southeast 36.

March was the driest since 1882. Only eight counties had stations reporting as much as 70 per cent of normal precipitation. Twenty counties had stations reporting 30 per cent of normal or less.

Mrs. Lee Hunt was hostess to the members of the Plainview Extension Club last Thursday afternoon, when the lesson on "Weigh Control," was given by Mrs. Harry Meyers and Mrs. Lewis Meyers.

The Star In Suburbia

One thing we know for sure—there are no dull moments lurking around Country Club Manor—There's always news of someone who is doing something somewhere in the area and since it all makes news—we love it.

We're particularly interested this morning in news of very young Gail Williams, who is just three and a half years old but who has been hospitalized in Omaha where she underwent heart surgery. Little Gail, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Williams, will be returning home on Friday.

And since we already have mentioned Friday we may as well stay with it and tell you that Mrs. Don Bickford will be entertaining the members of her bridge club on Friday evening at her home. In addition to the hostess the foursome includes Mrs. Donald Sween, Mrs. Byron Darrington and Mrs. Anton Kuzelka.

Tuesday seemed to be a popular day around Country Club Manor—On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Vernon Vogt entertained a neighborhood group at coffee at her home, and during the afternoon further plans were made for a Saturday evening party to honor Mr. and Mrs. John Hoffman whose marriage took place recently and who now are residing in the neighborhood.

And when Mrs. Thomas W. Boles entertained on Tuesday evening, it was a surprise birth-

Tax Work Consolidation With County Said Now Up To City

Commissioner Del Lienemann in his report to the County Board Tuesday said consolidation of city and county tax collection and assessment is up to the city for agreement.

The county has indicated its willingness to go along, Lienemann said.

The report was made following a meeting last week between city and county committees meeting in joint session to consider the possible merger of tax collecting agencies in the two government branches.

Lienemann said changing the assessment and collecting system would be beneficial to the idea of a city-county building, now being considered by an authority.

District Court Position Okayed

The County Board made official the job of second deputy clerk of the District Court.

After approving the second deputy position, the board immediately named Mary Freeman to the job. She will take over the duties left by retiring Miss Nellie Newmark, an employee in the District Clerk's office for 49 years.

According to commissioners, close to 50 years ago the office of second deputy was created, but it never was given official approval of the board.

Miss Freeman's salary was set at $275 a month.

Chief Deputy Clerk of the office is Otto Nelson. The District Court clerk is Wilfred Sanders.

Waller Fined $25 For Issuing Check

A guilty plea to a charge of issuing a check with intent to defraud resulted Tuesday in a $25 fine for William J. Waller, 24, of 1320 Chautauqua.

Waller was charged with issuing a $40 check on the National Bank of Commerce. He was ordered by County Judge Herbert Ronin to make restitution.

Jaycees' Good Government Award Goes To Theo Berg

Municipal Finance Director Theo Berg has been chosen by the Junior Chamber of Commerce for its annual Good Government Award.

The award is presented to the man or woman who has given outstanding service to local government. The recipient is chosen by the Junior Chamber's good government committee.

The selection of Berg was an honor to his 50 years of service to the city. Mayor Clark Jeary reviewed Berg's public career which includes a host of activities in connection with church, civic and youth work.

One of the most well known city officials, Berg was pictured by Jeary, in requiring each department of the city to live within its budget.

"Berg the progressive," he said, "was forever keeping pace with the latest methods of bookkeeping and accounting. Under his direction and guidance the city has developed a central accounting system second to none."

"Surely, 50 years of honest, efficient, earnest service to a community justifies reward."

Berg started with the city in 1905 as assistant city clerk. In 1913, he was named city clerk and auditor and in 1937 was made director of accounts and finance. His position includes jurisdiction over the city treasurer, purchasing agent, auditor and assessor.

The award was made by John

In accepting the award, Berg said its significance was in the fact that it meant he was "surrounded by friends. This is something that money cannot buy. To say thanks would be putting it mildly."

This is the third such award to be given. Other recipients have been Superintendent of Schools Steven N. Watkins and Jeary.

Out-Of-County Gas Purchase Is Questioned

The question of purchasing gasoline from county merchandisers or low bidders from outside the county was raised by County Commissioner Del Lienemann.

He told the board county suppliers of gasoline had complained the board was purchasing from "outside" concerns.

Lienemann said he "would prefer" giving the business to someone in the county.

Bard Commissioner Russell Brehm said he would like to have some reason to justify purchasing locally, but state laws require awarding purchase contracts to low bidders, whether they're in or out of the county.

Commissioner Chris Kuhner said one good reason for buying from local concerns is their availability when supplies are running short.

Kuhner asked for 30 days in which to prepare a resolution, with the aid of the county attorney, permitting local purchases in some circumstances.

Bank Clerk, 58, Pleads Guilty To $171,000 Theft

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Miss Helen Mulcahey, 58-year-old bank clerk, pleaded guilty in federal court to charges of embezzling $171,000 from the Springfield Marine Bank.

In withdrawing a previous plea of innocent, Miss Mulcahey asked for probation. He petition was referred to the court's probation officer.

The woman had been employed by the bank for 24 years. When the shortage was discovered last month, she was in charge of the bank's collection department.

Miss Mulcahey was indicted on 10 counts, each carrying a maximum penalty of five years in prison and $5,000 fine upon conviction.

Rev. Davidson Named To Emergency Shop

The Rev. Carl M. Davidson, pastor of the First Methodist Church, was named by the county board Tuesday to membership on the board of directors of the Community Emergency Shop.

His appointment will fill a vacancy created by the resignation of William McDermott, director of the County Public Welfare Dept.

Israel Asks Assurance Of Sincerity

... From Egypt

JERUSALEM (INS) — Israel sought assurances of Egyptian sincerity at the start of its border peace negotiations with Dag Hammarskjold.

Israel Premier David Ben-Gurion conferred two hours with the United Nations secretary-general. The premier bluntly asked about the nature of assurances Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser had given Hammarskjold in Cairo that Egypt would stick to its agreement to refrain from border attacks.

Foreign office sources said Israel wanted to make sure that the present lull in the fighting was not purely temporary and would flare up again once Hammarskjold left the area.

The Soviet Union pledged it will "support any U.N. action to strengthen peace" between Israel and the Arab states, and said it is ready to help achieve a settlement.

Cats Ruled Out In Alimony Pay

CHICAGO (INS) — Superior Judge Harry G. Hershenow ruled that James Lauritsen does not have to pay for the upkeep of his estranged wife's five cats.

Without the cats, asserted the attorney for Mrs. Eleanor Lauritsen, there is no chance for a reconciliation of the couple.

Mrs. Lauritsen sought to have her husband held in contempt of court for being $120 behind in his $45-a-week temporary alimony payments. Of the $45, $35 was for Mrs. Lauritsen and $10 for upkeep of the cats.

Lauritsen's attorney, Irving S. Abrams, said his client couldn't afford the cats any longer.

Judge Hershenow agreed. He ordered Lauritsen to pay the arrearage, but cut future payments to $35.

CHICAGO (INS) — Chicago police issued a "wanted" bulletin for a man who may turn up in a dentist's office.

But the rope was broken. Beneath it stood a heavy machine beside which lay six bloody teeth.

The county has indicated its willingness to go along, Lienemann said.

The report was made following a meeting last week between city and county committees meeting in joint session to consider the possible merger of tax collecting agencies in the two government branches.

Lienemann said he suggested to the joint session that the city assessor could be eliminated and pointed out a system whereby the county could handle the job.

The new operations might call for a change in the city charter, Lienemann said, in order to change the due date on tax reporting and collecting.

Real estate taxes in the city this year would not be handled by the county, Lienemann said, except that assessments on new property brought into the city would receive county valuations. City valuation would apply to property already on the city rolls.

Personal property could be handled by the county under the proposed system, to "save duplication."

State's Winds 'Good For Plants'

Nebraska's windy climate was touted by members of the County Board as a boon to attracting industry.

Contrasting the windy weather with the smog of a west coast city, the commissioners said industry should be urged to locate in the county.

A boost to such industry will be the available electrical output from a proposed Consumers Public Power atomic energy plant near Hal-lam.

GOP Lawmakers Attempting To Salvage Soil Bank

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican leaders in Congress set out Tuesday to salvage the soil bank section of the vetoed farm bill.

President Eisenhower rejected the bill as "bad" legislation but said Congress could still give the farmers some extra money this year by enacting a separate soil bank measure.

At the GOP leaders went to work on his idea, the Agriculture Department announced this year, cotton crop will be supported at levels reflecting about 87 per cent of parity.

In Line

This is in line with the rate virtually promised by Secretary of Agriculture Benson to cotton state legislators who supported the administration's cotton policies during the struggle over the farm bill.

Eisenhower has estimated the farmers could expect up to $100 million dollars this summer and fall. If Congress would go along with the soil bank and authorize advance payments to growers who agree to withhold acreage from the production of crops already in surplus.

After a White House strategy meeting this morning Rep. Martin (R-Mass.), the House minority leader told reporters the House could pass the soil bank in a single day if the Democrats would cooperate.

Knowland's Idea

Sen. Knowland of California the Senate's Republican leader, added he could see no reason why the Democrats would refuse to help the farmers in this way. I can't believe that purely for political purposes they would now turn around and oppose something they have already approved, he said.

But key Democrats in Congress were reported to be cool to the President's suggestion. They were represented as loath to give the administration something it wants in the way of agricultural legislation without getting the price supports they want.

Sen. Kefauver of Tennessee, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said in Santa Rosa, Calif., Congress might pass a separate soil bank bill but such bill isn't going to give relief now.

Override Unlikely

Both Martin and Knowland predicted the veto will be upheld by substantial margin. House Speaker Rayburn, "D Tex," conceded

there was no hope of an upset.

Rayburn said, however, the Democrats would not let up on the veto as a major campaign issue in the presidential and congressional elections. He decried he didn't think Eisenhower gave even a good excuse for refusing to sign the farm bill.

"I think it's pretty bad when the legislative branch — coordinate branch of the government — has got to take exactly what the President says or nothing," Rayburn said, a news conference.

This is one they can't pass on to anybody else. Nobody else vetoed this bill except Mr. Eisenhower. It's his responsibility.

The President said in his veto message the bill would do harm to every agricultural region of the country and also the interests of consumers.

One of his principal objections to it was a proposed return to price supports at 90 per cent of parity for basic crops. He said such a policy would do more to increase the surplus problem.

Rayburn said the President was considered poor.

Lincoln Man Is Found Dead

Bobon D. Clarence, 22, 1229 Otoe, was listed as an apparent suicide after his body was found in a car three-quarters of a mile east of the Turnpike south of the city.

Chief Deputy Les Hasson, acting coroner from the sheriff's office, said a .38 calibre slug nosed revolver found on the car seat, was the suicide weapon.

The Lincoln man's body was discovered by a farmer Charles Darrow, Rt. 1 early Tuesday morning. Hasson said Clarence had been dead for several hours.

Hasson said officials of Western Electric Co. where Clarence had worked the past six years said the youth had left work at 7:30 p.m. Monday for dinner and didn't return.

GOP Lawmakers Attempting To Salvage Soil Bank

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican leaders in Congress set out Tuesday to salvage the soil bank section of the vetoed farm bill.

President Eisenhower rejected the bill as "bad" legislation but

Nebraskans To Attend Lutheran Meet In Denver

Mrs. Herbert F. Oberle of Eagle, district president of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League, will be one of Nebraska's delegates to the International Convention of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League in Denver, Colo., Friday and Saturday.

Other Nebraska delegates elected to attend the convention are Mrs. Clarence Athouse Mrs. Oberle of Lincoln, Mrs. Martin Beethe of Elk Creek, Mrs. John Suh of Garland, Mrs. Gladie Kamitz of Hampton, Mrs. Harold Weber of Wymore, Mrs. Edwin Brauer of Minden, Mrs. J. A. Lautenschlager of Doniphan, Mrs. Lawrence Lueking of Atlanta, Mrs. Reinhard Zimmerman of McCook and Mrs. Herman Heideman of Kimball.

The women's missionary league is an auxiliary organization within the Lutheran Church with a three-fold program of education, inspiration and service.

Only 1 Polio Case Reported To State

Only one case of polio, from Thurston County, was reported to the State Health Department during the past week. That brought the total for the year to three compared to 10 at this time last year.

Dr. E. A. Rogers, director of health, expressed the view that part at least of the decline is due to the use of Salk vaccine. This month, he said, the department has received 7,128 doses for use of indigents and for the entire month of April to date he said 48,500 doses have been received.

The department head said that vaccine for other persons is being distributed through usual commercial channels and that the number of complaints on failure to receive sufficient vaccine is only what might be expected.

said Congress could still give the farmers some extra money this year by enacting a separate soil bank measure.

As the GOP leaders went to work on his idea, the Agriculture Department announced this year's cotton crop will be supported at levels reflecting about 87 per cent of parity.

In Line

This is in line with the rate virtually promised by Secretary of Agriculture Benson to cotton state legislators who supported the administration's cotton policies during the struggle over the farm bill.

Eisenhower has estimated the farmers could collect up to $500 million dollars this summer and fall if Congress would go along with the soil bank and authorize advance payments to growers who agree to withdraw acreage from the production of crops already in surplus.

After a White House strategy meeting this morning, Rep. Martin (R-Mass), the House minority leader, told reporters the House could pass the soil bank in a single day if the Democrats would cooperate.

Knowland's Idea

Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate's Republican leader, added he could see no reason why the Democrats would refuse to help the farmers in this way. "I can't believe that purely for political purposes they would now turn around and oppose something they have already approved," he said.

But key Democrats in Congress were reported to be cool to the President's suggestion. They were represented as loath to give the administration something it wants in the way of agricultural legislation without getting the price supports they want.

Sen. Kefauver of Tennessee, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said in Santa Rosa, Calif., Congress might pass a separate soil bank bill but such bill "isn't going to give relief now."

several things. It would get some land out of cultivation immediately, more in future seasons; it would boost some farm incomes quickly and take some of the sting out of Eisenhower's veto, which has become a major political issue.

There was evidence of some GOP dissatisfaction with Eisenhower's refusal to sign the farm bill which supporters estimated would have given farmers an additional two billion dollars in benefits this year.

Midwesterners attending a Republican campaign conference here said it was going to be harder to elect Republicans in their territory because of the veto.

An attempt to override the veto will be made in the House Wednesday but the chances of muster ing the necessary two-thirds vote against the President were considered poor.

Override Unlikely

Both Martin and Knowland predicted the veto will be upheld by substantial margins. House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) conceded there was no hope of an upset.

Rayburn said, however, the Democrats would not let up on the veto as a major campaign issue in the presidential and congressional elections.

He declared he didn't think Eisenhower "gave even a good excuse" for refusing to sign the farm bill.

"I think it's pretty bad when the legislative branch—coordinate branch of the government—has got to take exactly what the President says or nothing," Rayburn told a news conference.

"This is one they can't pass on to anybody else. Nobody else vetoed this bill except Mr. Eisenhower. It's his responsibility."

The President said in his veto message the bill "would do harm to every agricultural region of the country and also the interests of consumers."

One of his principal objections to it was a proposed return to price supports at 90 per cent of parity for basic crops. He said such a policy would only serve to increase the surplus problem.

Lincoln Man Is Found Dead

Bobbie D. Clarence, 22, 1229 Otto, was listed as an apparent suicide after his body was found in a car three-quarters of a mile east of the Turnpike south of the city.

Chief Deputy Les Hasson, acting coroner from the sheriff's office, said a .38 caliber snub-nosed revolver found on the car seat, was the suicide weapon.

The Lincolnite's body was discovered by a farmer, Charles Damrow, Rt. 1, early Tuesday morning. Hasson said Clarence had been dead for several hours.

Hasson said officials of Western Electric Co., where Clarence had worked the past six years, said the youth had left work at 7:30 p.m. Monday for dinner and didn't return.

The President said in his veto message the bill "would do harm to every agricultural region of the country and also the interests of consumers."

Lodge, American Legion and the American Legion Bugle Corps.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. W. L. McKee; his father, Ralph Clarence; a brother, Richard Clarence, and sisters, Mrs. Billie Jaque and Deloris Wagner. All but the sister, Mrs. Wagner, of Omaha, are from Lincoln.

Funeral services will be held Friday, 2 p.m., at Southminster Evangelical United Brethren Church with the Rev. Marvin V. Herrick officiating.

Pittsburgh Loses, Antonelli Is Star

NEW YORK (AP)—Johnny Antonelli pitched the New York Giants to a 4-3 victory under new Manager Bill Rigney Tuesday with a six-hitter against Pittsburgh before 12,700 opening day fans.

Despite two homers by Dale Long, the Pirates' slugging first baseman, Antonelli made Rigney's debut a happy one by whipping Bob Friend, last year's National League leader on earned run averages. The 26-year-old lefthander from Rochester, N. Y., also hit a game-tying homer in the seventh.

STAN DELAPLANE'S POSTCARD

Just 50 years ago this morning turned to the office. San Francisco shivered and fell. "How shall I write it?" I asked desperately.

"Write it like A Fire," said the city editor coldly. "Do I have to do everything around here?"

I wrote it like A Fire. I don't remember how. But it all came out like A Fire. Real estate values remained firm and the economy was saved.

Now I see by the paper that earthquakes are back in style again. And we need no longer refer to the whiskey warehouse that stood fast among the ruins to prove our point. That it was an unshakable town in flames.

(McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

When I was a young molder of public opinion this assignment fell one year to my poetic hands. And I filled it with great sobbing or gao notes. The city editor read it and turned white.

He led me into the back room among the clattering linotypes.

"What's this all about?" he asked.

"The earthquake, sir."

The city editor shuddered. "Delaplane," he said, "never use that word. Unless," he said, "you happen to be writing about Los Angeles or Florida. The unfortunate occurrence of 1906, when a mentioned in San Francisco journalism is The Fire. If the ground shook, it was barely noticeable. At least in this day and age it is bad for real estate development."

For a number of years thereafter I wrote of that momentous day. And though my copy quivered, the ground remained firm.

Real estate sold well. I even bought a house myself. Right on the San Andreas fault. Greater love hath no man.

Now it appears that there will be a big celebration in San Francisco. A big celebration of the — I can hardly bring myself to write it — the earthquake.

This requires a whole new approach to journalism. A complete re-education. With the city editor varying in mind. I never really thought of earthquakes. I dwelt on The Fire.

About 5 o'clock on the morning of April 18, 1906, a gentleman stood in Spider Kelly's Saloon on the Barbary Coast.

"Gimme a drink," he said. "You've had enough," said the bartender coldly. "Be off with you now."

"Gimme a drink," said the gentleman, "or I'll tear the place apart."

To show his intentions, he seized the massive bar and gave it a massive shake.

Immediately all four brick walls of Kelly's fell into the street. The customer and bartender fled through the gap into the street. In all directions San Francisco lay in ruins.

"You darned fool," yelled the bartender, "now look what you've done."

In later year the customer came to his deathbed and I was assigned to write the historic story.

"The way I figured it was like this," he said. "That bar had a water tap hooked up to it. That water tap was hooked up to the city mains. A whole crisscross of pipes running under the city and into every house."

"Now when I shook that bar, it just naturally shook the whole system. I was a powerful man in them days."

He then expired and I re-

POSTCARD

Just 50 years ago this morning San Francisco shivered and fell down. Everything that didn't fall down burned up.

Each year thereafter on the San Francisco journals we wrote an anniversary event. It was a poor reporter who did not mention somewhere about a "phoenix rising from the ashes." We were a poetic bunch.

When I was a young molder of public opinion this assignment fell one year to my poetic hands. And I filled it with great, sobbing organ notes. The city editor read it and turned white.

He led me into the back room, among the clattering linotypes.

"What's this all about?" he asked.

"The earthquake, sir."

The city editor shuddered. "Delaplane," he said, "never use that horrid word. Unless," he said, "you happen to be writing about Los Angeles or Florida. The unfortunate occurrence of 1906, when mentioned in San Francisco journalism, is 'The Fire.' If the ground shook, it was barely noticeable. At least in this day and age. It is bad for real estate development."

For a number of years thereafter I wrote of that momentous day. And though my copy quivered, the ground remained firm.

Real estate sold well. I even bought a house myself. Right on the San Andreas fault. Greater love hath no man.

Now it appears that there will be a big celebration in San Francisco. A big celebration of the — I can hardly bring myself to write it — the earthquake.

This requires a whole new approach to journalism. A complete re-education. With the city editor's warning in mind, I never really thought of earthquakes. I dwelt on The Fire.

About 5 o'clock on the morning of April 18, 1906, a gentleman stood in Spider Kelly's Saloon on the Barbary Coast.

"Gimme a drink," he said.

"You've had enough," said the bartender coldly. "Be off with you now."

"Gimme a drink," said the gentleman, "or I'll tear the place apart."

To show his intentions, he seized the massive bar and gave it a massive shake.

Immediately all four brick walls of Kelly's fell into the street. The customer and bartender fled through the gap into the street. In all directions San Francisco lay in ruins.

"You darned fool," yelled the bartender, "now look what you've done."

In later years the customer came to his deathbed and I was assigned to write the historic story.

"The way I figured it was like this," he said. "That bar had a water tap hooked up to it. That water tap was hooked up to the city mains. A whole crisscross of pipes running under the city and into every house."

"Now when I shook that bar, it just naturally shook the whole system. I was a powerful man in them days."

He then expired and I re-

"How shall I write it?" I asked desperately.

"Write it like A Fire," said the city editor coldly. "Do I have to do everything around here?"

I wrote it like A Fire. I don't remember how. But it all came out like A Fire. Real estate values remained firm and the economy was saved.

Now I see by the paper that earthquakes are back in style again. And we need no longer refer to the whiskey warehouse that stood fast among the ruins to prove our point. That it was an unshakable town in flames.

DR. BAXTER STRESSES INDIVIDUALITY AT NU HONORS CONVOCATION

Dr. Frank Baxter made a plea for non-conformity at the University of Nebraska honors convocation Tuesday.

Dr. Baxter, professor of English at the University of Southern California, said that everywhere men go they are pressured by the grade average.

He said the individual must conform to as great a degree as possible but at the same time let his own individual differences grow.

The horror is, he said, that in the process of being a good citizen a man may cease to be an individual.

Result of Two Things

These pressures of conformity, Dr. Baxter said, have resulted from two conditions which are influencing men at all times.

The first of these, he said, is that "you are viewing a world which has been more badly hurt, badly wounded" than at any other time in history.

Dr. Baxter said the second factor is the tremendous growth of world population. As the world fills up there is almost the instinctive feeling of the mass that

U.S. Can, Will Meet Russ Challenge In Mideast, Africa—Lodge

BY PIERRE J. HUSS

(COURTESY, U.S. INFORMATION SERVICE)

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said Tuesday after a recent swing through North Africa that the United States "can and will" meet the political and economic challenge presented by the Soviet Union in the Mideast and Africa.

In an exclusive interview, the chief Eisenhower administration spokesman at the U.N. declared that the way to counter Soviet economic penetration in these underdeveloped areas is to avoid "clash" programs and win popular support with systematic five year economic aid projects.

Lodge toured Libya and the Sudan for several weeks on an official technical assistance survey mission. He stressed that the Soviet Union is seeking anchor and challenging U.S. influence in all the underdeveloped countries in Asia and Africa. Lodge stated:

"In a few countries they have actually extended economic aid in others the Soviets are making so-called 'offers.'

People Not Aware

Those who have studied Communist tactics in Europe and in China know very well that the Soviet Union never extends economic aid without there being very dangerous strings attached and that the purpose is always infiltration of personnel with a view to eventually taking the country over. Undoubtedly the leading men in these African and Asian countries are aware of this danger. But the people are not.

"There is no doubt that we can meet this challenge and there is also no doubt in my mind that we will meet it. To neutralize it successfully does not mean to appropriate more money. But it may mean conducting our economic activities in a different way."

Lodge, who presented his viewpoint and conclusions to the high level in Washington after his Africa tour, added:

More Advantageous

"This different way might, for example, be more advantageous to us and also cheaper in the end if the President were authorized by Congress to make commitments to us to compete with the Soviet Union in fields where we should could get some solid undertakings.

Enables Us To Compete

"In the second place, it enables us to put more of our money into multilateral programs such as that which is conducted under UN auspices. This has several advantages from our viewpoint. In the first place, it gets more countries in on the program with us so that our percentage of the cost is less.

Lodge Continued

"It might also be advantageous for us to put more of our money into multilateral programs such as that which is conducted under UN auspices. This has several advantages from our viewpoint. In the first place, it gets more countries in on the program with us so that our percentage of the cost is less.

U.S. Can, Will Meet Russ Challenge In Mideast, Africa—Lodge

By PIERRE J. HUSS

(Copyright 1956 by Internal News Service)

UNITED NATIONS (INS)—Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said Tuesday after a recent swing through North Africa that the United States "can and will" meet the political and economic challenge presented by the Soviet Union in the Mideast and Africa.

In an exclusive interview, the chief Eisenhower administration spokesman at the U.N. declared that the way to counteract Soviet economic penetration in these underdeveloped areas is to avoid "crash" programs and win popular support with systematic five-year economic aid projects.

Lodge toured Libya and the Sudan for several weeks on an official technical assistance survey mission. He stressed that the Soviet Union is seeking an anchor and challenging U.S. influence in all the underdeveloped countries in Asia and Africa. Lodge stated:

"In a few countries they have actually extended economic aid. In others the Soviets are making so-called 'offers'."

People Not Aware

"Those who have studied Communist tactics in Europe and in China know very well that the Soviet Union never extends economic aid without there being very dangerous strings attached and that the purpose is always infiltration of personnel with a view to eventually taking the country over. Undoubtedly the leading men in these African and Asian countries are aware of this danger. But the people are not."

"There is no doubt that we can meet this challenge and there is also no doubt in my mind that we will meet it. To neutralize it successfully does not mean to appropriate more money. But it may mean conducting our economic activities in a different way."

Lodge, who presented his viewpoint and conclusions to the highest levels in Washington after his Africa tour, added:

More Advantageous

"This different way might, for example, be more advantageous to us and also cheaper in the end if the President were authorized by Congress to make commitments for a four or five-year period. We could get some solid undertakings

Enables Us To Compete

"In the second place, it enables us to compete with the Soviet Union in fields where we should show up to great advantage. In response to a four or five-year program which we could not get on a merely annual basis. It would also be cheaper to us than responding to a succession of 'crash' operations year after year when we came in at the last minute to meet a desperate emergency."

Lodge continued:

"It might also be advantageous for us to put more of our money into multilateral programs such as that which is conducted under U.N. auspices. This has several advantages from our viewpoint. In the first place, it gets more countries in on the program with us so that our percentage of the cost is less.

British Get Ready As 'B&K' Near

... Dock Today

LONDON (UPI) — Russia's touring salesmen—Nikita Khrushchev and Nikolai Bulganin—steamed toward British shores Tuesday night, aiming to cash in on two carefully-timed Communist peace gestures.

On the eve of their arrival for 10 days of barnstorming and conferences, the world was told that the Cominform had been dissolved and that the Soviet Union was willing to help gain peace in the Middle East.

The Soviet Premier and the Soviet Communist party boss debarked from the Russian cruiser Ordzhonikidze at Portsmouth Naval Base Wednesday. British smiles of welcome will be tempered by concern lest the two turn their truncheon into a propaganda circus. But there was guarded hope that this time the Soviet leaders might mean business.

Prime Minister Eden declined to discuss the "B and K" visit in the House of Commons. Asked whether the Israeli-Arab problem would be dealt with, he declared "the talks will be confidential and I am not prepared to disclose what particular point or argument will be raised by Her Majesty's government."

Briscoe Named

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower designated Vice Adm. Robert P. Briscoe as commander-in-chief of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in southern Europe.

Briscoe, who has been deputy chief of naval operations for fleet operations and readiness, will succeed Adm. William Feltcher, who had applied for retirement after 44 years service.

British Get Ready As 'B&K' Near

... Dock Today

LONDON (AP) — Russia's touring salesmen—Nikita Khrushchev and Nikolai Bulganin—steamed toward British shores Tuesday night, aiming to cash in on two carefully-timed Communist peace gestures.

On the eve of their arrival for 10 days of barnstorming and conferences, the world was told that the Cominform had been dissolved and that the Soviet Union was willing to help gain peace in the Middle East.

The Soviet Premier and the Soviet Communist party boss debarked from the Russian cruiser Ordzhonikidze at Portsmouth Naval Base Wednesday. British smiles of welcome will be tempered by concern lest the two turn their trip into a propaganda circus. But there was guarded hope that this time the Soviet leaders might mean business.

Prime Minister Eden declined to discuss the "B and K" visit in the House of Commons. Asked whether the Israeli-Arab problem would be dealt with, he declared "the talks will be confidential and I am not prepared to disclose what particular point or argument will be raised by Her Majesty's government."

Briscoe Named

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower designated Vice Adm. Robert P. Briscoe as commander-in-chief of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in southern Europe.

Briscoe, who has been deputy chief of naval operations for fleet operations and readiness, will succeed Adm. William Feltcher, who had applied for retirement after 44 years service.

Market Sells Off As Interest Fades

NEW YORK (P)—The backing and filling operation the stock market has been going through the past week continued Tuesday against the competition of the opening day of the baseball season.

Trading interest faded as baseball started, and the market itself sold off near its close.

Volume came to 2,230,000 shares, compared with 2,300,000 on Monday.

Those totals are around the lowest of the past two months.

Stocks still had continuing strength.

The market was up, with the market throughout, except for a few stocks.

Interest, however, was best at the opening of the baseball season.

But the market was off in the last half an hour.

The Associated Press reported on Monday that the market was off under the record burn.

The industrial component of the market was off, but the market was down only 10 cents.

And the American Stock Exchange was down on volume of 1,600,000 shares, compared with 1,470,000 Monday.

Trading interest faded as baseball started, and the market itself sold off near its close.

Volume came to 2,300,000 shares, compared to 2,810,000 shares traded Monday. Those totals are around the lowest of the past two months.

Steel and oils had outstanding strength that carried prices up around $4.

They were probably the best market throughout the week, and sold under their best at the finish as most other major divisions slipped to the losing side at the final bell.

The Associated Press average of 80 stocks was off 70 cents at $185.50, just $2.00 under the record.

The industrial component of the average was off 80 cents, rails were down 60 cents and utilities lost 20 cents.

The American Stock Exchange was mixed with volume 1,000,000 shares, compared with 1,170,000 Monday.

Defense Blames Italian Red, Not Icardi, In Slaying

WASHINGTON — The attorney for ex-Army Lt. Aldo Icardi told a federal court jury Tuesday that an Italian Communist leader, not Icardi, master-minded the bizarre World War II murder of American Maj. William V. Holohan.

The jury is hearing charges that Icardi swore falsely in denying any role in the slaying of Holohan far behind enemy lines in Italy in 1944. Defense counsel Edward Bennett William told the panel: "We will show you that Aldo Icardi is not a murderer or a thief or a liar."

"Testimony will show that he was one of the real heroes of World War II."

5-Year Maximum The maximum penalty for perjury is five years in prison. Williams told the jury Holohan

Mrs. Gimmestad Elected To Two Phys Ed Offices

FREMONT, Neb. — Mrs. Wilma Gimmestad, chairman of the department of physical education for women at Midland College, has been named to two top physical education offices.

She was elected as one of six district representatives on the board of directors of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation. In this post she represents nine central states.

She succeeds Dr. M. Gladys Scott, chairman of the department of physical education for women at the State University of Iowa.

Mrs. Gimmestad is also the president elect of the Central Association for Physical Education for College Women.

PTA Taxes Poll Results At Meet

Results of a poll of Nebraska PTA members on state taxes will be disclosed at the convention of the Nebraska Congress of Parents and Teachers Thursday and Friday at Fremont.

The PTA members were polled on whether they favored a sales tax, an income tax or both, and whether they would favor a study by "outside competent economists" of the Nebraska tax structure.

The poll was taken at the direction of the last convention, held a year ago.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because the teeth dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do you live in fear of this happening to you? Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the magic powder on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, they feel more comfortable. Does not enter. Checks "plate odor" (dentist's term). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Don't Let Carpet Cleaning Floor You
Now you can clean all types of wall-to-wall carpets quickly and easily with the new Blue Lustre Carpet and Upholstery Cleaner.

This very gentle foam cleaner is brushed into the carpet without soaping or matting, leaving the pile open and lofty. The original colors spring out like magic as you apply the foam with a long handle brush. (Easy as playing shuffleboard.)

Blue lustre leaves no rings. You can remove spots or traffic lanes in a jiffy. Works beautifully on upholstery too. It's economical as $\frac{1}{2}$ gallon of Blue Lustre concentrate cleans three 9 x 12 rugs.

was "liquidated" by Communists under the direction of Vincenzo Moscatelli, now a member of the Italian Parliament.

He said Moscatelli, leader of Communist partisans in northern Italy under the name of "Capt. Ciro," wanted to get rid of Holohan because he "constituted an obstruction" to the Communist postwar plans.

Williams said Moscatelli artfully devised a plot to blame Icardi and another American, former Sgt. Carl LoDolce, Rochester, N. Y., for the slaying.

Fought Over Supplies The government's version is that Icardi engineered Holohan's slaying because the two men disagreed on distribution of supplies among various partisan groups, with Holohan reluctant to give arms to the Reds for fear they would use them later in a civil war.

Williams told the jury the Communists got two partisans, attached to the Holohan cloak-and-dagger mission, to change their original stories and blame Icardi and LoDolce.

The partisans, Giuseppe Manini and Gualtiero Tozzani, are among nearby a score of Italians flown here to testify as government witnesses in Icardi's trial.

After his opening statement, Williams began a move to knock out the indictment against Icardi on technical grounds.

Defense Blames Italian Red, Not Icardi, In Slaying

WASHINGTON (AP) — The attorney for ex-Army Lt. Aldo Icardi told a federal court jury Tuesday that an Italian Communist leader, and not Icardi, master-minded the bizarre World War II murder of American Maj. William V. Holohan.

The jury is hearing charges that Icardi swore falsely in denying any role in the slaying of Holohan far behind enemy lines in Italy in 1944. Defense counsel Edward Bennett Williams told the panel:

"We will show you that Aldo Icardi is not a murderer or a thief or a liar."

"Testimony will show that he was one of the real heroes of World War II."

5-Year Maximum

The maximum penalty for perjury is five years in prison.

Williams told the jury Holohan was "liquidated" by Communists under the direction of Vincenzo Moscatelli, now a member of the Italian Parliament.

He said Moscatelli, leader of Communist partisans in northern Italy under the name of "Capt. Ciro," wanted to get rid of Holohan because he "constituted an obstruction" to the Communist chief's postwar plans.

Williams said Moscatelli artfully devised a plot to blame Icardi and another American, former Sgt. Carl LoDolce, Rochester, N. Y., for the slaying.

Fought Over Supplies

The government's version is that Icardi engineered Holohan's slaying because the two men disagreed on distribution of supplies among various partisan groups, with Holohan reluctant to give arms to the Reds for fear they would use them later in a civil war.

Williams told the jury the Communists got two partisans, attached to the Holohan cloak-and-dagger mission, to change their original stories and blame Icardi and LoDolce.

The partisans, Giuseppe Manini and Gualtiero Tozzini, are among nearly a score of Italians flown here to testify as government witnesses in Icardi's trial.

After his opening statement, Williams began a move to knock out the indictment against Icardi on technical grounds.

Formal Motion

He told reporters he will make a formal motion Wednesday to dismiss the indictment on the ground that the House Armed Services Committee before which Icardi is accused of lying had no legislative purpose in mind at the time. He said Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY) who testified Tuesday, failed to show that questions asked Icardi were pertinent to the subcommittee's 1953 inquiry.

Cole, under lengthy questioning by Williams, said the question of perjury was discussed before Icardi was invited to testify. He said the question of possible perjury prosecution entered into a committee decision to put Icardi under oath.

The primary purpose of the inquiry, Cole said, was to see whether a crime had been committed and whether the Army was lax in its investigation of the case.

PTA Taxes Poll Results At Meet

Results of a poll of Nebraska PTA members on state taxes will be disclosed at the convention of the Nebraska Congress of Parents and Teachers Thursday and Friday at Fremont.

The PTA members were polled on whether they favored a sales tax, an income tax, or both, and whether they would favor a study by "outside competent economists" of the Nebraska tax structure.

The poll was taken at the direction of the last convention, held a year ago.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because the teeth dropped slipped or wobbled as just the wrong words were said. Give in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Eat, drink, talk, more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (dental breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.
